

Suffolk's Unforgettable Garden Story

Photography & Media Volunteer

About the project:

Suffolk's Unforgettable Garden Story is a Gardens Trust and Historic England project training volunteers to research and record historic parks and gardens across Suffolk. This research will contribute to increasing the number of sites on the National Heritage List for England (NHLE), and will increase the representation of, as well as celebrating Suffolk's many wonderful historic designed landscapes.

What we need?

Photographs, short video and audio recordings of volunteers participating in this project, with a particular focus on capturing site visits to historic parks and gardens. We would like someone with some photography and media experience, with a focus on people and the environment.

Why do we need it?

The aim of this role, is to capture the engagement of people and communities with their local historic landscapes, and to create visual content which shares some of the stories relating to Suffolk's parks and gardens. This will enable us to share the outcomes of this project both locally, and nationally, and with the hope that it will encourage the initiation of similar projects.

Vision for the role:

We would like to use images, sounds, and recordings to tell the story of Suffolk's Unforgettable Gardens, and share these with wide audiences. We want someone to produce media content which reflects people engaging with green spaces, as well as highlighting some of the beautiful landscapes Suffolk boasts.

Where will the content be used?

Social media, websites, and promotional materials. Content will be used for publicity by the Gardens Trust, Historic England, and the Suffolk Gardens Trust.

By producing media and photography to appeal to a broad spectrum of audiences, we hope to share the positive outcomes of this project, and continue encouraging people to get involved!

Who are we looking for?

We are ideally looking for someone Suffolk based, who can commit between now and June, and is able to travel as part of the role (expenses will be covered). If you are interested and would like more information, please get in touch by emailing: Karina.flynn@thegardenstrust.org.
